Margo Weathers – 30 september 2016

I'm a breeder of national champion old bloodline German shepherds (GSD) and my dogs receive the best of care, best nutrition, etc.

Last year when they were seen by the vet for routine checkup and in perfect health during the visit with the vet, she recommended I switch them to Bravecto.

My dogs began vomiting within a day, wouldn't eat, lethargic, depressed. Within five days they began getting outbreaks of red sores and intense scratching. Upon examination, the vet said she had no idea what was wrong.

Months later when they received the Bravecto again, the exact same issues occurred. I'm very experienced with animal care and so are some of my friends who are also excellent breeders and several of them experienced the same issues with their dogs when they were given Bravecto.

We attempted to identify any commonalities and the only thing in common among all the dogs is that they received Bravecto.

DO NOT USE THIS PRODUCT AND REPORT ISSUES TO MERCK AS WELL AS THE FDA.
